Returnee Migrants: A ready workforce

How Returnee Migrants can become Active Economic Agents

Gaps between parties

Bangladesh has a fairly large population of returnee migrants. Once engaged in economic activities in different countries, on returning back to Bangladesh, returnee migrants often face an uncertain employment scenario. They have the skills and experience but find it difficult reaching out for the right opportunities.

At the same time, the business community is always looking for competent, skilled and experienced workers with high productivity. Returnee migrants can be a good choice for recruitment. But employers find it difficult to trace the returned migrants and reach out to them.

In this context, Bangladesh Employers’ Federation (BEF) has developed a number of interventions to address these gaps between both parties.

Why you make a decision in favor of returnees

Migrant workers are major foreign exchange earners in Bangladesh. They are working in 157 countries in different industries. 4,25,684 migrants in 2014 and a total of 1,53,661 migrants up to April 2015 went abroad for employment. There are currently more than 8 million Bangladeshi people working and living abroad.

Increased movement of labor indicates diversified employment opportunities in the global market. Remittances sent by migrants through official channels reached a record level of USD 13 billion in 2013. Every year, a large number of migrants return to Bangladesh after completion of their contract, or otherwise termination of employment. These returnee migrants often face problems in getting employment here, because there is no or limited system in place to help them in finding a placement.

Comparative advantages of hiring returnees

- They are born and brought up in Bangladesh, and now they are familiar with both local and international business practices
- They are ready workforce who have proved their competency in a highly competitive international market
- They have professional training (both in Bangladesh and abroad), skills and working experience in the international arena
- They are oriented in standard production norms by ensuring standard productivity
- Majority of them are in a favorable age group (age 35-45) who will continue to remain in employment for the next many years to come

• BEF’s Interventions
BEF has designed the following interventions for professional reintegration of the returnees:

❖ Job Fair for Returnee Migrants:
According to a survey by Bangladesh Institute of Labor Studies (BILS) and ILO, about 50% of the returnees have expressed their interest to seeking jobs after returning to Bangladesh. To help returnees and employers to come on a common platform, BEF has come up with the idea of organizing job fairs where the two parties can connect with one another. The pilot job fair is organized in Dhaka on Sunday, May 24, 2015, at the Multipurpose Hall of Institute of Diploma Engineers, Bangladesh. BILS and other civil society organizations dealing with migrant workers and returnees have extended their support in organizing this pilot job fair.

Recognition of Prior Learning & Refresher Training

Institutional arrangements are already in place to facilitate assessing, recognizing, testing, and certifying the skills levels of returning migrant workers under the existing and expanding scope offered by the Bangladesh Technical Education Board (BTEB).

These arrangements include:

a. Certification issued to the qualifying persons under the Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) scheme.

b. Due process for skills assessment is followed, and if required, refresher trainings are provided to the returnee migrant workers before issuing the skills certificates.
c. It is reasonable to expect that a duly issued skills certificate will help the returning migrant workers in finding a job.

d. Awareness creation information package to be developed in Bangla for job-seeking returnees containing details of RPL, refresher trainings offers, and skills certification options.

e. Such information packages will be distributed at all ports of entry by the BMET help desk, and at all the relevant desks at local government offices.

• Help Desk for Placement & Counseling

  A specialized desk has provisionally been set up at BEF for providing information and counseling for job-seekers and prospective entrepreneurs. When fully functional, this desk will provide information on markets, training facilities, credit facilitation, and so forth. Two qualified staff-members of BEF to be assigned to this desk to provide information support and counseling services to returnee migrant workers.

  ❖ Rollout Plan

  The detailed rollout plan includes:

  i) Replication of the job fair at the divisional headquarters throughout 2015-2016 period.
ii) RPL, Refresher Trainings, and Skill Certification are continuous processes and this intervention to be linked with the existing project interventions and activities of the government organizations, e.g., BMET, MoLE, BTEB, NSDC, etc.

• Employment Opportunities for Returnees

According to a forthcoming report on “The homecoming: Profiling the returning migrant workers of Bangladesh” by Bangladesh Institute of Labour Studies (BILS) and ILO, returnees are interested in exploring mainly two types of employment: employed in a job and self-employment. They can seek employment both in the public and private sector.

Most of the business ventures are in the private sector. Private enterprises in Bangladesh are booming, and much in need of the rightly skilled workforce. Returnees, with the necessary skills and experiences gained overseas can find the right position in the booming enterprises.
